Results of the DEAL-Wiley Agreement 2020

Wiley is the third most relevant publisher for German authors.

In 2020, 12% of all scientific articles from Germany were published in Wiley journals.

Publish and read

While authors at over 900 institutions in Germany are automatically entitled to publish Open Access under the DEAL agreements, universities and research institutions sign participation agreements with MPDL Services GmbH to ensure access to the publisher's entire journal portfolio and archives.

Researchers at 504 sites now benefit from equal and comprehensive access to Wiley journals.

Publishing in 2020

10,039 publications were published in 2020 through the DEAL agreement in Wiley's hybrid journals, of which 255 articles were published in parallel in the German and English editions of the journal Angewandte Chemie. Another 881 articles appeared in Wiley's fully open access journals.

Authors from 316 different German scientific institutions were involved in these publications.

Authors retaining their rights

By the end of 2020, 97% of authors chose open access for publishing in Wiley's hybrid journals. Their articles were published under a free license (CC-BY) without any access barriers and may thus be disseminated and re-used worldwide. The number of publications for which authors opted out of open access continues to decline.

Open access publishing across disciplines

According to the disciplines of Scopus, DEAL publications in Wiley journals were distributed as follows in 2020:

Open access to key research

Wiley journals are among the most frequently used publication venues of authors in Germany, especially in the field of chemistry, but also in the life and materials sciences.
